The HUMORIST.

Into a thousand parts divide one man,
And make imaginary puissance. SHAKESPEAR.

THAT all men entertain high notions of their own importance, is a position of great antiquity; experience, that beſt of maſters, never fails to ſhew it in the moſt glaring colours: From the miniſter of ſtate to the cobler in the ſtall, every individual ſwells at his own imaginations; no man conſiders himſelf as ordained to act a part only; we are all univerſal players, and are as eminently qualified for princely dignity as ruſtic familiarity, and in our own eyes appear equally ſuited for the hero or the buffoon, the king or Abel Drugger.

I have frequently conſidered theſe ideas as flowing from a mind emulous of fame, and centering at leaſt in innocent amuſement. Theſe imaginary operations, may truly be termed the ſcience of Caſtle-building; there is a pleaſure ariſing from this profeſſion, unknown to all others.

I have patronized this art many years, and after having run thro' the ſeveral ſtages of life, am happy enough to find my finances in tolerable order.

If a man has any talent for building, my ſcheme not only furniſhes him with fruitful deſigns, but likewiſe with ſuitable materials. In the ordinary courſe of architecture, the pocket ſuffers, and the houſe muſt bear the ſhocks of weather and inconvenience of ſituation; now I can erect a little citadel, vary the proſpects at pleaſure, can ſuppoſe myſelf its governor, attended with all the pomp of a military cavalcade, and, by the forgeries of imagination, perſuade myſelf into a firm belief that the enemy are ſoliciting for favor and protection.

I remember a brother of mine buſied in the noble art of turning nine-pins, who, to all outward appearance, has look'd as if the balance of power depended upon every individual pin; I have erected houſes for children by the help of cards, houſes in my opinion equal to thoſe of Venice, and have abſolutely undertook the arduous taſk of compiling laws for their inhabitants, equal to thoſe of Solon and Lycurgus.

If mankind can by any lawful means amuſe time, remove inquietude to a greater diſtance, and from mere fancy picture to his mind any grateful objects, ſure this art muſt take place: If a ſign-painter can imagine himſelf poſſeſſed of the ſingers of a Raphael, that his portraits are ſurprizing, his pencil bold and animating, and that his figures ſwell on the canvas and quicken into life, permit him to hug the bleſt idea, no one ſuffers for it, no one receives an injury; the incident affords pleaſure to the one, and a fund of laughter for the reſt: Thus all men may live in harmony, and a more juſt degree of equality ſubſiſt in the world; common humanity alone juſtifies this reaſoning:

——— The pleaſure is as great
In being cheated, as to cheat, ———

is the language of Hudibras,

Henceforward let the curate look the biſhop with impunity, the lawyer (if he liſt) ſuppoſe himſelf a judge, the merchant what he pleaſes, and in ſhort, let every member of the world look every thing.

Shortly will be publiſhed.

THE Anatomy of human Heads, deſcribing the various kinds, the mathematical, ſpherical and elliptical; interſperſed with many curious anecdotes, and reflections, critical, moral, and philoſophical; and illuſtrated with near a million of worthy perſonages, as engrav'd by the beſt maſters.

SONG by the HUMOURIST.

AS Damon one Day with his fair One was ſate,
He talk'd pretty freely of this and of that,
While he toy'd on the Green in Negligence gay,
And, Provero-wiſe, quickly began to make Hay.

Lord bleſs me, how rude! ſuch a Man I proteſt
Is the Plague of my Heart, and Foe to my Reſt;
No Woman can bear ſuch like Freedom as this,
And the NO ſhall from henceforth take place of the YES.

He whiſper'd an Accent ſo ſweet in her Ear,
When ſhe look'd a ſmile, (if ſmiles are ſincere)
But too ſoon to his Grief, reſponſive Eccho
Gave, inſtead of the YES, a gentle NO, NO.

Unſkill'd in the Arts of Lucinda the gay,
He ſoon diſcontinu'd his amorous play;
She ſlighted him too; for the Women deteſt
That a Man ſhould invert what's meant as a Jeſt.

Henceforth ye fond Lovers, who wiſh to obtain
The thouſand Endearments oft ſought for in vain,
Accept this Advice, which th' experienc'd all know,
That a Women means YES when e'er ſhe ſays NO.

Hague, Sept 7. The laſt letters from London adviſe, that as the affairs of the Empire take a favourable turn, 'tis his Britannick majeſty's intention to viſit his German dominions next year, as ſoon as the ſeaſon will admit of his taking ſuch a journey.

London, Sept 25 The ſociety's thirty eight buſſes returned to Southwold about a fortnight, from the Shetland fiſhery; and twenty four of them are now upon the fiſhing ground off Yarmouth, where the remaining fourteen will be in a few days.

Laſt Tueſday was held a council at Kenſington; when diſpatches were ſent to Madrid, Paris, and Vienna.

Sept 29. A ſubſcription is now carrying on at Hull for the Whale fiſhery, and at the firſt meeting there was upwards of 20,000 l ſubſcribed.

We learn by letters from Madrid, that the great drought, which has entirely deſtroyed the harveſt this year, in almoſt every part of the kingdom, ſtill continues; and public proceſſions are again ordered to be made for rain.

Private letters from Madrid intimate, that their court is extremely nettled at the treaty concluded between the houſe of Auſtria and the duke of Modena, though all the articles of it are not yet known, and is caſting about for expedients to defeat the intention of it. They alſo inſinuate, that in a few months the difference about the navigation of the Engliſh in the Weſt-Indian ſeas, and the contraband trade carried on with the Spaniſh Colonies, will be determined, as his Catholick majeſty is going to ſend ſuch a reinforcement to his Guards Coſtas in America, that thoſe diſputes muſt needs be brought to an iſſue ſome way or other.

London, October 1. Some news of importance is ſpeedily expected from Ruſſia.

Private letters from Dunkirk inform us, that they go on very briſkly with the new works order'd to be made there, and have almoſt finiſh'd a large baſſe, which is 30 feet in depth, and may be kept either wet or dry, as they ſee occaſion.——Quere, Is this againſt the Tenor of our Treaties with France? Yes, it is againſt the Letter, but agreeable to the Spirit of Treaties; which means, that they are to be broke as ſoon as either Party can ſafely do it, or find his Account in it.

At a court of common-council this day held at Guildhall, it was ordered, that the town clerk do wait upon the members of parliament for this city, and acquaint them, that it is the earneſt requeſt of the ſaid court, that they would ſeverally uſe their beſt endeavours to obtain a repeal of the late act in favour of the Jews.

Thurſday both houſes of parliament met at Weſtminſter, purſuant to their laſt prorogation, and the parliament was further prorogued to Thurſday the 15th of November next, to be then held for the diſpatch of buſineſs, and a proclamation iſſued for that purpoſe in the London Gazette of this day.

A great many pieces of cannon and other military ſtores, were ſhipped the beginning of this week for Sardinia.

Should our herring and whale fiſheries increaſe for nine or ten years, in proportion as they have done ſince their late eſtabliſhment, the naval power of Britain would be greatly ſtrengthened, its induſtry much encouraged, its wealth conſiderably augmented, by that time we may be again engaged in war with France, or with any other power who ſhould attempt to wound the Britiſh conſtitution, or diſpute the honour of its flag.

By letters from Yarmouth, a great number of Dutch ſchooners, with many French ſailors, are come upon that coaſt, in order to

...harvest of the enſuing herring fiſhery:——The ...ſupply Germany and other Markets; and the French ...ſubſiſt the Negroes in their Sugar Colonies, which conſume ...aſt Quantities of the above Fiſh.

They write from Genoa, that the ſenator Grimaldi, is very deſirous of being diſcharged from his troubleſome poſt in Corſica, where it is every day more and more apparent, that the people are determined, at all events, to ſhake off the ſovereignty of the republick; and there is a ſtrong rumour, that in conſequence of a late treaty, an expedient will be found for the ſale of that iſland to a certain power, with the approbation of the court of Spain.

The king of Denmark has publiſhed an ordonance at Altena, forbidding all his ſubjects to enliſt themſelves for the Britiſh Colonies in America, on pain of confiſcation of their effects; and ſuch as ſhall be convicted of enliſting them are to be ſent to work on the fortifications, or otherwiſe corporally puniſhed.

The complaints among the poorer Jews, eſpecially thoſe who trade as a ſort of pedlars in the ſeveral counties of England, are very great ſince the naturalization act; which, by the popular clamour raiſed againſt it, has in a manner deprived them of the very means of ſubſiſtence. The more humane part of the country people, who don't chuſe to inſult and abuſe them, very calmly acquaint them, that, tho' no way culpable, yet, as Jews, they are determined to have nothing to do with them, nor lay out a ſingle penny with them.

Limerick, Oct. 4. A few days ago a poor woman about 60 years of age, who had the misfortune to bury her huſband in May laſt, was delivered of two boys, who are like to live.

London, October 6. The lords of trade and plantations have appointed the hon. Charles Raynard, Eſq; chief agent for the colonies of New York and South Carolina.

The drought which has ſo long prevailed in Portugal, having done great damage to the corn, orders have been ſent to England to buy up a large quantity for a freſh ſupply, in order to prevent the ſcarcity the inhabitants of Liſbon are threatened with.

The fleet of obſervation that is now forming for the Channel, will be under the command of admiral Boſcawen.

October 8. Some letters from Conſtantinople by yeſterday's mail mention another bloody battle between Prince Heraclius and the Schach Doub, in which the latter was dangerouſly wounded, and loſt 12 000 men; and was bliged to retire with the remains of his army to Indoſtan.

October 10. It is ſaid, that ſome royal grants of ſeveral parcels of large waſte lands in this kingdom will paſs next ſeſſions of parliament, for the encouragement of ſeveral manufactures, and for the employment of the poor: And that a bill will then be brought into parliament for appropriating the ſite of the late diſſolv'd royal hoſpital of the Savoy, with all its revenues, which are very conſiderable, for the better ſupport and maintenance of ſuch a number of the widows of the clergymen, and to ſuch other particular uſes as may beſt anſwer the pious intention of its royal founder Henry VII.

October 13. We have advice from India, that Major Laurence was encamped in April laſt, within fourteen miles of Fort St. David's, and then the French were within ſix miles of him; and it was expected that Major Laurence would ſtorm the French camp, which, probably, might be the loſs of one or the other.

Paris, Oct. 15. His excellency the earl of Albemarle has preſented a long memorial in relation to the repairs of Dunkirk, on which the king has aſſured that all things ſhall be reduced to the condition ſtipulated by treaties.

Birmingham, Oct. 15. Laſt week Mr. Whitefield came to this town, and yeſterday, on a large waſte piece of ground, preached to a very great number of people, collected together by curioſity.

London, Oct. 18. His majeſty has been pleaſed to appoint the right hon. James Lord Tyrawley, to be captain general and governor in chief in and over his majeſty's iſland of Minorca and town of Port Mahone.

Six men of war will ſpeedily be put into commiſſion, in order to be ſtationed in the Weſt Indies.

London, Oct. 25. By a letter from Rouen we hear, that ſome new manufactures are eſtabliſhing there and in other adjacent towns, workmen having been procured from England for that purpoſe.

Some advices from the Hague ſuggeſt, that ſince their high mightineſſes entered into ſome negotiations relative to the alliance in the North, they have been diſturbed by ſeveral diſagreeable applications. His Daniſh majeſty's envoy has demanded, in his maſter's name, the payment of certain ſubſidies of a very old ſtanding; the Pruſſian ſecretary has intimated, that the debts due from the government of Eaſt-Friezland are to bear for the future but 3 per cent. intereſt; and the miniſter of the [illegible] has alſo preſented a memorial, in circumſtances [illegible]. It is morally certain [illegible] with regard to what paſſes [illegible] ing the treaty of commerce with [illegible] we have been ſo long flattered, ſeems to [illegible] to the Greek kalends.
